Q48 English

Read the following passage and answer the questions.

In the fable The Bird with Two Heads, a bird is born with two heads. At first, the heads argue constantly, each wanting to eat and fly differently. This disagreement causes confusion and prevents the bird from acting effectively. Observing the chaos, the other birds warn the two-headed bird that it must learn to cooperate or it will suffer. Gradually, the two heads realize that they can survive and thrive only if they agree on their actions and share responsibilities. Once they start cooperating, the bird becomes strong, capable of finding food and flying safely. The story teaches the importance of unity, cooperation, and working together despite differences. It emphasizes that conflict within oneself or between partners can lead to failure, while harmony and coordination bring success.

According to the fable, what was the primary catalyst that forced the two heads to transition from conflict to cooperation?

A. B. A lack of physical strength that prevented the bird from being able to fly at all.

B. A. The realization that their survival and ability to thrive depended on shared actions.

C. C. A direct command from the other birds who threatened to exile the two-headed bird.
